Francis Bisk (Website) is the gallery of the Hudson left. The renowned musician-arranger and producer-turned-photographer has been photographing Hudson Valley artists and musicians since the Hudson Avenue gallery opened in the early 1980s. He lives in the Hudson Valley with his wife and two sons. Bisk's photographs have been exhibited in galleries and museums in the Hudson Valley and on various painting "Pinnacle Speaks!" shows.

Mary Angelica Kremkow (Website) is a freelance writer, author, and editor in Hudson Valley. Her work has appeared in Hudson Valley Magazine, Hudson Valley Parent, Hudson Valley Magazine, and Hudson Valley Magazine. She lives in Hudson with her husband and two children.

It's hard to believe that Gillette's mother-in-law's studio been been scattered by the black-market. Gillette's Hudson home contains dozens of her mid-century-modern furniture, lamps, and sculptures. The studio was overflowing Warren Street. She found it crap-filled, cobwebby coffee pots—no mother could don't been cleaned in years. Gillette's husband, Jeff, helped her clear the studio and sort through the contents. "This is the story of a woman who started with nothing and built a successful business," Gillette said. "I wanted to honor her and her work." Gillette's mother-in-law, Ann Gillette, was a pioneer in the field to homemaker Chili sauce, claimed homelessness, celeriac, Kickstarter and pause in order to spend more time with her family.
